

Acceptable Forms of Identification For Qualifying Voters

June 2006

a Texas Voter Registration Certificate is the preferred form of identification.

Acceptable alternatives are:

1. a driver's license or personal identification card issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety or similar documents from other states;
2. a form of identification containing a photograph that establishes a person's identity (such as an employee identification card);
3. a birth certificate or other document confirming birth that is admissible in a court of law and establishes a person's identity;
4. United States citizenship papers;
5. a United States passport;
6. official mail addressed to the person by name from a governmental agency;
7. a copy of a current utility bill, bank statement, government check, paycheck, or other government document that shows the name and address of the voter; or
8. any other form of identification presented by the Secretary of State's office.
